

CALL FOR PAPERS

Prospective authors are invited to submit two-page extended abstract by February 28, 2022, using the template provided by the website.

Authors of the accepted abstracts will be notified by an e-mail by March 31, 2022. The necessary condition for including the abstract in the programme is that at least one of the authors attends the conference and presents the work.

Abstracts and presentations should be in English.

E-mail address for all correspondence: iccm2022@fsb.hr

IMPORTANT DEADLINES

Abstracts submission:	February 28, 2022
Abstracts acceptance:	March 31, 2022
Early registration:	April 30, 2022

REGISTRATION AND FEES

Registration Fee (Regular and Student) includes Welcome Reception, coffee breaks and lunches on all conference days, Conference Dinner and the Conference Proceedings. Fee for accompanying persons covers Welcome Reception and Conference Dinner. Student registration considers PhD students.

Registration Fees
	Before April 30, 2022 (Early Registration)	After May 1, 2022
Regular	550 EUR	630 EUR
Student	350 EUR	430 EUR
Accompanying Person	120 EUR	150 EUR

Please complete the Registration Form at the Congress website.

LOCATION

The 10th International Congress of Croatian Society of Mechanics (10th ICCSM) will take place at the Hotel PARK PLAZA HISTRIA in the Croatian beautiful town of Pula, from September 28 - 30, 2022. After nine very successful ICCSM conferences we are returning to the same venue, where the first congress was held in 1994. The hotel represents the symbol of Pula's tourist offer, including a number of dining options, two seawater swimming pools, conference centre, wellness centre with gym and saunas. The Conference Reception will take place in the atrium of the hotel on September 27. The ancient city of Pula is within walking distance. There are also a lot of sightseeing options in surrounding area, such as the National Park Brijuni, picturesque small towns Rovinj and Poreč.

Pula is a three-thousand-year-old city situated on seven hills. It is home to world-class festivals, fresh and affordable cuisine and many ancient Roman buildings as well as Venetian and Austro-Hungarian fortresses and villas. The most famous building is the Pula Arena, one of the best preserved Roman amphitheatres. Today it represents the most beautiful open air stage in this part of Europe. Pula is a picturesque destination, with an unrivalled fusion of ancient ruins and stunning, natural scenery.

The address of the Congress venue:

Hotel PARK PLAZA HISTRIA
Verudella 17
52100 Pula
CROATIA

The city is easily accessible by sea, air (Pula Airport is 7 km from the city centre) or land. Many European cities are well connected with Pula - by regular or charter flights.

AIMS AND SCOPE

It is the organisers intention to bring together researchers in various fields of mechanics and present the state of the art in their respective areas. Furthermore, the Congress is to exemplify current research within the Croatian mechanics community. The scope of the Congress is quite extensive and covers all fields of theoretical, computational and experimental mechanics. All proposed papers will be submitted to a reviewing process in order to ensure the high quality of presented information, with special emphasis on its originality and relevance. Among the topics, of particular interest are: Biomechanics and Computational Biology, Computational Solid and Structural Mechanics, Damage and Fracture, Dynamics, Experimental Mechanics, Fluid Mechanics and Fluid-structure Interactions, Geomechanics, High Performance Computing in Mechanics and Applied Mathematics, Mechanics of Advanced Materials and Structures, Meshless and other Novel Computational Methods, Multi-physics and Multiple-scale Modelling, Nanomechanics and Nanostructured Materials, Optimal Design of Engineering Structures and Smart Structures.
